2018 Harvard-KMU exchange program Jan 9th-Jan 20th, 2018

Started from 2005; 14th-year anniversary

Field Experience in International Occupational Health and Safety (衛生管理實務) (Winter session)

This intensive two-week course, in collaboration with Kaohsiung Medical University's Department of Public Health (Graduate Institute of Public Health) will focus on several major industries in Taiwan. Lectures will cover these industrial processes and their known health and safety risks.

Students will be taken on several supervised site visits to each industry, and will be encouraged to process their observations through interactive discussions.

This course will also provide exposure to cultural issues around work, work organization, labor-management relations, and governmental and academic roles relevant to occupational safety and health in these settings. The faculty will include several HSPH alumni and experts in southern Taiwan.

Course Activities: Site visits; seminar presentations.

Written reports of site visits will be prepared by students, with oral presentations and discussion.

Course Credit: 2.5 credits. Grading: Pass-Fail.
