Notes:

Notes:

1. Graduate students in the Department of Public Health's doctoral program in the 2025-2026 academic year must complete at least 18 credit hours (9 credit hours of required courses and 9 credit hours of elective courses) and 12 credit hours for their doctoral dissertation to graduate. The maximum number of credit hours that can be taken from other departments (doctoral programs) within the university is 8; any credits exceeding this will not be counted towards graduation. International students in the doctoral program may take the English-language course "Academic Research Ethics" offered by other colleges (departments) within the university. Due to the needs of international students in the doctoral program, the required course "Advanced Biostatistics" can be substituted by "Advanced Biostatistics (EMI)".

2. The maximum number of credit hours that doctoral students in this department can take per semester is 16.

3. Graduate students admitted from the 2017-2018 academic year onwards must complete self-study through the Taiwan Academic Ethics Education Resource Center website during their first semester and obtain a certificate of completion through a final examination before applying for the degree oral examination.

IV. Graduate students who pass the doctoral candidate qualification examination must submit a research progress report, which must be conducted at least once per academic year.

V. A passing grade for undergraduate courses is 60. Those who fail are not allowed to retake the exam. Undergraduate course credits and grades are not included in semester, graduation average, or credit point calculations.

VI. Criteria for applying for the doctoral dissertation examination: (Subject to the guidelines announced by the university's Academic Affairs Office) Doctoral students must pass one of the following English proficiency tests when applying for the dissertation examination:

(I) Applicable to new students admitted from the 2012 academic year onwards:

(1) TOEFL score: TOEFL Paper-based Test (ITP) 500 or above, TOEFL Computer-based Test (CBT) 193 or above, or TOEFL Internet-based Test (IBT) 68 or above.

(2) Passing the preliminary intermediate/advanced level of the National English Test System (NEPT).
(3) TOEIC score 600 or above. (4) IELTS score of 5.5 or above.

(II) Applicable to new students admitted from the 2017-2018 academic year onwards: Applicants must pass the GEPT Intermediate Level, achieving CEFR B1 level (or equivalent English proficiency) in listening, reading, speaking, and writing. Alternatively, they may take the "Continuing English" course offered by the Language Center; passing this course will meet the English graduation requirements. For various English proficiency test score levels, please refer to the school's English proficiency test comparison table (website path: Academic Affairs Office/Registration/English Graduation Requirements).

VII. Eligibility requirements for doctoral students applying for thesis examinations in this department are as follows: (Subject to the announcement of the Academic Affairs Office)

Doctoral students admitted from the 2012-2012 academic year onwards must meet one of the following qualifications:

(I) Two original papers: Published as the first author in SCI/SSCI journals, with one paper published in a journal ranked in the top 20% of the field and the other in a journal ranked in the top 50% of the field. (II) Three original papers: Published as the first author in SCI/SSCI journals, all three papers must be published in journals ranked in the top 50% of their respective fields.

(III) At least two original papers: Published as the first author in SCI/SSCI journals, with a combined I.F. of 5.0 or higher.

(IV) To graduate within three years (within the university's study period): One paper, published as the first author in an SCI/SSCI journal, with an I.F. of 6.0 or higher.
